

Dedicated to Educating, Uniting, and Empowering Women

Shekhinah B.

Executive Director | Speaker | Facilitator | Creative Cultural Producer

Shekhinah B. is a rising star in the nonprofit sector. Formally she has a Masters in Science in Nonprofit Leadership, a Bachelors in Political Science and English, an Associates in Behavioral Science, as well as certifications in Grantsmanship, Fundraising, Digital Marketing and Human Services.

In 2010, she developed a small women's group in the Pennsylvania region to improve the adverse conditions effecting women while providing informative resources via the web. Shekhinah is the Executive Director and Founder of The Women's Coalition for Empowerment, Inc., a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization dedicated to educating, uniting, and empowering women.

With over 15 years' experience, working with under-served populations in urban communities; she made a strong commitment to giving back to places where the social and economic structures are unstable. During her experience, she exhibited strong leadership skills in the greater Philadelphia region where she has fostered relationships with corporations, schools, and several nonprofit organizations. With continued support and opportunities, she will continue to be a passionate advocate and speaker in the areas of nonprofit management, entrepreneurship, women's issues, economic development and empowerment.

Shekhinah has made guest appearances on G-Town Radio 92.9 FM, Philly Community Access Media Television/Radio WPPM-LP 106.5 FM (Comcast 66/966 – Verizon 29/30), Jazz Bridge WRTI 90.1 FM, and The Roxi Fab Show Live and Direct.

Shekhinah B. is available to speak at schools, religious institutions, correctional facilities, colleges/universities, non-profits, women's groups, prisons, self-help groups, etc. For more information, contact The Women's Coalition for Empowerment via email at Info@TheWCE.org with your request.